

I am a daily listener of the radio station 91.1 FM in the Denver area that rebroadcasts the nationwide station KLOVE. I am also a financial supporter of KLOVE.

KLOVE is one of only two positive message stations in the area and the other station is much "harder" music than a lot of folks enjoy listening to.

If the Low Power FM (LPFM) policies of the FCC are changed to give priority to LPFM over existing FM translators, the Denver area and many areas around the country will lose service that is beneficial to us and that we strongly support financially.

The loss of these stations will remove one of very few voices on the airwaves that present a positive message to listeners rather than "let's see what we can get away with" broadcasting as represented by the likes of Howard Stern, Lewis and Floorwax, and other "shock jocks" who simply try to push the limits of "decent" speech.

As a parent I need a station that I can listen to without fear of what foul language or sexual descriptions my daughter will hear on the air.

Please do not allow LPFM policy to change to give priority over existing FM translators.
